DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 3 and 11 are objected to because of the following informalities: In line 1, no antecedent basis could be found for "the three frequencies". Perhaps, these claims were to depend from 2 and 10 instead of 1 and 9. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,4,5 and 9-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Burdick 2,705,460.

Burdick discloses a system and method for removing paraffin or wax from production tubing. An ultrasonic frequency-generating device (see figure 2) is placed in or adjacent the production tubing. The device is used to produce an ultrasonic frequency to prevent and remove paraffin build-up on the tubing. As to claims 2 and 10, the device can be used to produce any number of frequencies and these claims do not even limit the frequencies to being different. As to claims 4 and 12, Burdick states that the ultrasonic device is used to inhibit wax from forming on the equipment. Therefore, inherently the device must be operated at a frequency that prevents build-up of paraffin. As to claims 5 and 13, Burdick states that the device is used to remove the paraffin from the tubing. Therefore, inherently the device must be operated at a frequency that removes paraffin. As to claim 11, the device of Burdick is capable of being operated in this range and in apparatus claims that the device be capable of performing the function is all that is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3,6,7,14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burdick.

As to claim 3, the device of Burdick is capable of operating at these frequencies and it would have been considered obvious to optimize the frequencies that work best for removing the paraffin. As to claims 3 and 14, use of a frequency that breaks down the bonds would have been considered obvious since optimization of the frequency to a value that achieves the best results would be desirable. As to claims 7 and 15, generation of all three frequencies simultaneously could be obtained by the device of

Art Unit: 3672

Burdick and again optimizing the frequency in any manner to achieve the best results would be considered obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
